HERITAGE AT RISK

Heritage at Risk is our campaign to save listed buildings and important historic sites, places and landmarks from neglect or decay. At its heart is the Heritage at Risk Register, an online database containing details of each site known to be at risk. It is analysed and updated annually and this leaflet summarises the results.

Over the past year we have focused much of our effort on assessing listed Places of Worship, and visiting those considered to be in poor or very bad condition as a result of local reports. We now know that of the 14,775 listed places of worship in England, 6% (887) are at risk and as such are included on this year's Register. These additions mean the overall number of sites on the Register has increased to 5,753. However, 575 sites have been removed from the 2013 Register, which includes one of our biggest achievements this year, Severndroog Castle, Greenwich.

Nigel Barker, Planning and Conservation Director, London

Our success stories this year reflect the variety of sites we deal with in London. From a K2 telephone box to a grand Georgian house, a total of 41 sites have been removed from the London Heritage at Risk Register. We are particularly pleased that Severndroog Castle has once again opened its doors to the public, ten years after it first appeared in the television series 'Restoration'. The impressive 60 foot tower dates from the late 18th century and has been carefully restored under the guidance of the Severndroog Castle Building Preservation Trust, with support from English Heritage, the Heritage Lottery Fund and the Royal Borough of Greenwich. Another notable achievement is the repair of two monuments in Kensal Green Cemetery, with funding from English Heritage and the cemetery Friends Group, including a monument to French acrobat Emile Blondin.

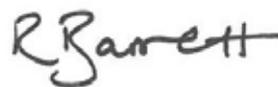

We have also seen progress on a number of our top ten priority sites. Now in the ownership of English Heritage, repairs to the magnificent Manor Farm Barn at Harmondsworth are well underway. The project has provided opportunities for training in traditional building skills and regular open days have enabled the public to better appreciate this grade I listed medieval barn. We are also delighted that the Heritage Lottery Fund has awarded almost £9m to Ealing and Hounslow Councils to support the restoration of Gunnersbury Park and its many buildings and follies, as well as the museum currently housed in the Large Mansion. Both of these projects demonstrate the collaboration, perseverance and imagination so often needed to find sustainable solutions to heritage at risk.

Despite our successes, there are still considerable challenges. Most notable this year is the addition of 25 places of worship to the Register. This follows an extensive national project which has provided us with an accurate and up to date picture of places of worship at risk in London. With this information we will continue to work closely with congregations and funding bodies in the year ahead.

A further 23 buildings or structures have been added to the Register, as well as 1 archaeological site and 5 conservation areas. Scadbury Manor, a newly designated scheduled monument in Bromley; Reliance Arcade, a 1920s covered market in Brixton; and the Mare Street conservation area in Hackney are just three examples. A number of churchyard and cemetery monuments have also been added and tackling these remains a priority for us in London.

Whilst we recognise that funding and resources are still stretched, we hope to build on our successes to secure the future of vulnerable heritage assets in London. To achieve this, the support and imagination of our partners will be as important as ever.

SCADBURY MANOR MOATED SITE AND FISHPONDS, CHISLEHURST, BROMLEY

Scadbury Manor is an impressive site with the remains of a medieval moated manor house and well preserved fishponds. Having flourished during the 15th and 16th centuries, the fortunes of Scadbury turned in the early 18th century when the manor house was partially demolished. Today the site is in a deteriorating condition and needs further investigation and repair. Bromley Council is working closely with partners, including the Friends Group and English Heritage, to secure the long-term conservation and interpretation of this scheduled monument.

KENSAL GREEN (ALL SOULS) CEMETERY, KENSINGTON AND CHELSEA

BACKGROUND AND HISTORY:

Kensal Green is a 77 acre cemetery situated in the heart of London. One of the so-called 'Magnificent Seven' Victorian cemeteries, Kensal Green certainly lives up to this name with its impressive Anglican Chapel, Entrance Lodge, Dissenters Chapel, North Colonnade, and many elaborately decorated monuments.

The cemetery opened in 1833 to the designs of John Griffith. It was the first commercial cemetery in London, providing much needed burial space in an ever-expanding city. Kensal Green was also the 'cemetery of choice' for the rich and famous and the impressive monuments and mausolea we see today reflect this status.

Kensal Green is owned and managed by the General Cemetery Company and is still actively used for burials. The Friends Group, set up in 1989, also play an important role in the maintenance and conservation of the cemetery.

IS IT AT RISK?

The fortunes of Kensal Green Cemetery turned in the latter part of the 20th century, with fewer resources available for its upkeep, a growing number of monuments and structures in need of attention, and the encroachment of self-seeded vegetation on the legibility of the historic landscape.

The cemetery was added to the Heritage at Risk Register in 2009. The Anglican Chapel, the North Colonnade, boundary wall and some 32 monuments are also at risk.

WHAT'S THE CURRENT SITUATION?

Despite the overwhelming size of Kensal Green Cemetery and the variety of issues to be tackled, the General Cemetery Company and the Friends Group have made considerable progress in recent years.

Day-to-day maintenance of the cemetery is now informed by a robust Conservation Management Plan. A newly appointed project manager has also given fresh impetus to the project steering group and condition surveys of the Anglican Chapel and the most vulnerable monuments are helping to prioritise and guide repair works. Some works have already been carried out to the boundary wall, the North Colonnade and four mausolea, partly funded by English Heritage and the Friends Group.

The next challenge is to think imaginatively about the long-term management of the cemetery, as well as the repair and re-use of the Anglican Chapel which sits so prominently within the historic landscape. All partners will continue to work together over the coming year to secure the future of this magnificent cemetery for future generations.

HELP HISTORIC BUILDINGS

Historic buildings are irreplaceable; they give us our sense of place and contribute to our quality of life. These precious buildings need to be looked after for future generations, but how do we know what needs our help the most? English Heritage is encouraging community groups, volunteers, building owners and local authorities across the country to come together to record the condition of grade II listed buildings in their area. Volunteers will visit a selection of grade II buildings local to them and answer questions, in the form of a survey, about the condition of the building. This information will be collected together and shared with local planning authorities to help identify those grade II buildings most at risk. Visit www.english-heritage.org.uk/help/historicbuildings to find out more.

SEVERNDROOG CASTLE, GREENWICH

BACKGROUND AND HISTORY:

Severndroog Castle is a hidden gem situated amongst ancient woodland in the Royal Borough of Greenwich. It was commissioned by the grieving widow of Sir William James following the death of her husband in 1783. Sir William James was the Commander-in-Chief of the East India Company's marine forces and achieved great success in 1755 when his fleet defeated pirates on the island fortress of Severndroog, off the west coast of India.

The castle is an impressive triangular tower, some 60 feet in height, with hexagonal turrets and battlements. It was designed in the Gothic style by architect Richard Jupp and included decorative interior rooms.

Throughout the course of its history, Severndroog Castle has changed hands numerous times. Its story has also been shaped by the sheer height of the tower - the rooftop provided a temporary home to the Ramsden Theodolite used by General William Roy and his team in the first Ordnance Survey of southern Britain, and the castle served as a strategic watch tower during the Second World War.

Towards the end of the 20th century Severndroog Castle fell into a state of disrepair. Its decorative plasterwork and joinery were damaged by water penetration and many features were damaged or stolen by vandals.

IS IT AT RISK?

The fortunes of Severndroog Castle have been turned around thanks to the perseverance and hard work of the Severndroog Castle Building Preservation Trust. Set up in 2003, the trust now leases the building from the Royal Borough of Greenwich. It has successfully repaired and restored the castle, with support from the Heritage Lottery Fund, English Heritage and the Royal Borough of Greenwich amongst many others.

The castle was added to the Heritage at Risk Register in 1990, but has been removed this year following its successful restoration.

WHAT'S THE CURRENT SITUATION?

In summer 2014, Severndroog Castle opened its doors to the public for the first time in 25 years. The castle has been carefully restored. The decorative plasterwork has been repaired and re-gilded, the windows painstakingly overhauled and graffiti cleaned from the outer walls.

The castle now provides a tearoom, much needed community space and a small exhibition area which tells the story of the castle and its owners. The building is available for both educational visits and private hire, and the rooftop gallery provides spectacular views of London and the surrounding countryside.

DESIGNATION

Definition

All the historic environment matters but there are some elements which warrant extra protection through the planning system. These are included in the National Heritage List for England (NHLE), an online searchable database of designated assets (<http://list.english-heritage.org.uk>). Since 1882, when the first Act protecting ancient monuments and archaeological remains was passed, government has been developing the designation system. Listing, which is applied to buildings, emerged from the post-Blitz 1940s planning acts. There are now nearly 400,000 designated assets on the NHLE including listed buildings, scheduled monuments, registered parks and gardens, registered battlefields and protected wreck sites.

English Heritage, as the government's expert adviser, is responsible for making recommendations – but it is still the Secretary of State at the Department for Culture Media and Sport who makes the decisions on whether an asset is designated. Understanding and appreciation develop constantly, which makes keeping the designation base up-to-date a never-ending challenge.

While responding to threat-driven cases, we increasingly seek to work strategically through the National Heritage Protection Plan. Recent developments have seen a greater striving for openness and transparency in the process of designating a site, and better communication of what makes something special.

Alongside the nationally designated assets found on the National Heritage List for England are locally designated assets. Best known are conservation areas, but local authorities can also create lists of locally valued assets. Most archaeological sites of significance are not scheduled, but rely on local identification and management for their protection.

LISTED BUILDINGS

Listing is by far the most commonly encountered type of designation. A listed building (or structure) is one that has been designated as being of special architectural or historic interest. The older and rarer a building is, the more likely it is to be listed. Buildings less than 30 years old are listed only if they are of outstanding quality and under threat.

Listed buildings are graded I, II* and II. Grade I buildings are of outstanding interest, and II* are particularly important buildings of more than special interest; together they amount to 8% of all listed buildings. The remaining 92% are of special interest and are listed grade II.

There are almost 376,000 listed entries on the statutory list of buildings of special architectural or historic interest. Entries on the statutory list sometimes group together a number of separate buildings: a terrace will be counted as one entry, rather than as separate units. Entries on this Register reflect how buildings are grouped and recorded on the statutory list.

Structures can occasionally be dual designated (both listed as buildings and scheduled as monuments). In such cases, scheduling controls take precedence.

SCHEDULED MONUMENTS

Scheduled monuments include single archaeological sites and complex archaeological landscapes. 19,833 examples have been designated because of their national importance. Scheduled monuments are not graded. They cover human activity from the prehistoric era, such as burial mounds, to 20th century military and industrial remains. For the millennia before written history, archaeology is the only testament to innumerable generations of people of whom there is no other record.

The later 20th century saw unprecedented changes to the landscape. As a result, types of historic site that once were commonplace began to become rare. Those that survive often represent just small islands of what once characterised broad sweeps of our towns and countryside. Although protected by law, scheduled monuments are still at risk from a wide range of processes and intense pressures outside of the planning system. These include damage from cultivation, forestry and – often most seriously of all – wholly natural processes such as scrub growth, animal burrowing and erosion.

REGISTERED PARKS AND GARDENS

There are 1,628 designed landscapes on the current English Heritage Register of Historic Parks and Gardens of Special Historic Interest. These registered landscapes are graded I, II* or II, and include private gardens, public parks and cemeteries, rural parkland and other green spaces. They are valued for their design and cultural importance, and are distinct from natural heritage designations.

Inclusion on the English Heritage Register of Historic Parks and Gardens brings no additional statutory controls, but there is a clear presumption in favour of upholding their significance in government planning guidance. Local authorities are required to consult English Heritage on applications affecting sites registered as grade I or II* and the Garden History Society on sites of all grades. The setting of other designated heritage assets can also protect registered landscapes.

REGISTERED BATTLEFIELDS

English Heritage's Register of Historic Battlefields was set up in 1995, and is our youngest category of designation. Its aim is to protect and promote those sites where history was made through conflict. They range from the Battle of Maldon (991) to Sedgemoor (1685); almost half date from the period of the civil wars in the mid-17th century. These special places, where thousands were often killed, deserve our recognition and respect. Recently, additions have been made to the Register of Historic Battlefields for the first time since its creation. There are now 46 registered battlefields.

Protection is needed to prevent encroachment through inappropriate development, or insensitive (and damaging) metal detecting, which can permanently alter the archaeological record. As with registered parks and gardens, there is a clear presumption in favour of protecting registered battlefields in Government planning policy.

PROTECTED WRECK SITES

England's 49 protected wreck sites represent a tiny proportion of the 33,000 or so pre-1945 wrecks and recorded casualties that are known to lie in the territorial waters. Wreck sites can be of importance for different reasons: the distinctive design or construction of a ship, the story it can tell about its past, its association with notable people or events and its cargo. The Protection of Wrecks Act 1973 empowers the appropriate Secretary of State to designate a restricted area around a vessel to protect it or its contents from unauthorised interference, and English Heritage administers the attendant licensing scheme for divers seeking access.

CONSERVATION AREAS

Conservation areas are designated by local authorities and are areas of particular architectural or historic interest, the character or appearance of which it is desirable to preserve or enhance. For more than 40 years conservation areas have proved a highly effective mechanism for managing change on an area-wide basis. There are currently 9,848 conservation areas in England including town and city centres, suburbs, industrial areas, rural landscapes, cemeteries and residential areas. They form the historic backcloth to national and local life and are a crucial component of local identity and community cohesion.

Criteria for inclusion on the Register

RISK ASSESSMENTS

A risk assessment of a heritage asset is based on the nature of the site. Building or structure assessments, for instance, include listed buildings (but not listed places of worship) and structural scheduled monuments; archaeology assessments cover earthworks and buried archaeology.

BUILDINGS AND STRUCTURES

Buildings or structures (not in use as public places of worship) considered for inclusion on this Register must be listed grade I or II*, (or grade II in London) or be a structural scheduled monument with upstanding masonry remains. Buildings or structures are assessed for inclusion on the basis of condition and, where applicable, occupancy (or use) reflecting the fact that a building which is occupied is generally less vulnerable than one that is not.

Occupancy (or use) is noted as 'vacant', 'part occupied', 'occupied', 'not applicable', or occasionally, 'unknown'. Many structures fall into the 'not applicable' category as they can be ruins, walls, gates, headstones or boundary stones.

Condition is noted as 'very bad', 'poor', 'fair' or 'good'. The condition of buildings or structures on the Register typically ranges from very bad to poor, fair and (occasionally) good reflecting the fact that some buildings or structures capable of use are vulnerable to becoming at risk because they are empty, under-used or face redundancy without a new use to secure their future. Assessing vulnerability in the case of buildings in fair condition necessarily involves judgement and discretion. A few buildings on the Register are in good condition, having been repaired or mothballed, but a new use or owner is still to be secured.

Buildings or structures are removed from the Register when they are fully repaired/consolidated, and their future secured through either occupation and use, or through the adoption of appropriate management.

PLACES OF WORSHIP

Places of worship considered for inclusion on this Register must be listed grade I, II* or II and be used as a public place of worship at least six times a year.

Places of worship are assessed on the basis of condition only. If the place of worship is in very bad or poor condition it is added to the Register.

English Heritage has visited and assessed listed places of worship considered to be in poor or very bad condition according to local assessments. Those that are identified as at risk are included on the Register.

Once on the Register, places of worship can move through the condition categories (e.g. from very bad to poor, to fair, even good) as repairs are implemented and the condition improves, until they are fully repaired and can be removed from the Register.

ARCHAEOLOGY

Archaeology assessments cover earthworks and buried archaeology. The archaeological sites on this Register have been identified as being at risk because of their condition and vulnerability, the trend in their condition, and their likely future vulnerability. A site's condition is expressed in terms of the scale and severity of adverse effects on it, ranging from those with 'extensive significant problems' to others that have only 'minor localised problems'.

Archaeological entries are removed from the Register once sufficient progress has been made to address identified issues, demonstrating a significant reduction in the level of risk.

PARKS AND GARDENS

The assessment of parks and gardens starts with an appraisal of the condition and vulnerability of each registered landscape. Steps being taken by owners to address problems are also taken into consideration.

Parks and gardens assessed as being at risk are typically affected by development and neglect. They have frequently been altered by development or are faced with major change. The original function of these landscapes has often changed; and divided ownership often results in the loss of the cohesive conservation of the historic designs.

Park and garden entries are removed from the Register once plans are put in place to address issues and positive progress is being made.

BATTLEFIELDS

Battlefields deemed to be at risk of loss of historic significance are included on this Register.

The identified risks and threats come from development pressure - for example, because they lie on urban fringes or are subject to development pressures within the site; arable cultivation, and unregulated metal-detecting. One major impact or a combination of factors can be enough to raise the risk of a particular site.

Battlefields are removed from the Register when either actual damaging activities are reversed or managed, or threats recede due to effective management planning.

WRECK SITES

English Heritage has audited all designated wreck sites to identify those most at risk based on their current condition, vulnerability and the way they are being managed. Wrecks are vulnerable to both environmental and human impacts. Risks that contribute to inclusion on the Register range from unauthorised access to erosion and fishing damage.

The monitoring process ensures that the significance of the site is identified and maintained.

In spite of the inherent difficulties in caring for this type of site, careful management must be maintained.

Wrecks are removed from the Register once an appropriate management and monitoring regime is operational.

CONSERVATION AREAS

English Heritage has asked every local authority in England to complete (and update as appropriate) a survey of its conservation areas, highlighting current condition, threats and trends. Conservation areas that are deteriorating, or are in very bad or poor condition and are not expected to change significantly in the next three years, are defined as being at risk.

The methodology for assessing conservation areas at risk has been refined since the first survey in 2008/2009. The information collated provides a detailed assessment of each conservation area and an overall category for condition, vulnerability and trend is included for each conservation area on this Register. Conservation areas identified as at risk in 2009, but not reassessed since using the revised methodology, are included on the Register but with limited information.

Conservation areas are removed from the Register once plans have been put in place to address the issues that led to the conservation area being at risk, and once positive progress is being made.

Reducing the risks

English Heritage is working to secure a reduction in the number of heritage sites at risk as part of our contribution to the National Heritage Protection Plan (2011-2015). We have set ourselves a target to remove 25% of entries (1,137) published on the 2010 Register by 2015. Despite the challenge, given the number of entries on the Register and the different kinds of risk they face, excellent progress is being made.

The published Heritage at Risk National Strategy (www.english-heritage.org.uk/publications/eh-har-strategy-2011-15) sets out how this will be delivered through our dedicated Heritage at Risk teams in each local office. Key objectives of the strategy are to understand what factors lead to heritage sites becoming at risk, what most influences their removal from the Register, and to achieve this through partnership, stimulating economic regeneration and growth, and maximising the benefit of our expertise and resources.

Whilst each type of heritage asset and individual site will require its own approach and solution, there are some general approaches that are relevant to all 'at risk' assets. Resolving cases requires working in close partnership with owners, local planning authorities and a wide variety of other relevant organisations. The provision of clear advice and understanding are essential.

Maintenance and where appropriate, occupation are key to preventing heritage assets becoming at risk, whilst maintenance of those already at risk will prevent them from decaying further. Without maintenance, the cost of repair and consolidation escalates, the challenge for owners and occupiers increases, and the scope for affordable solutions declines.

English Heritage provides a wide range of published guidance on reducing the risks, including: new uses for heritage assets, finding partners and funding, and on enforcing urgent works and repairs, on our website: www.english-heritage.org.uk or the Historic Environment Local Management (HELM) website: www.helm.org.uk. Key publications and guidance are listed on pages XIV-XV.

Historic Environment Records and local heritage at risk registers, maintained by local authorities, are repositories of information on local historic assets. They underpin the work of local authority historic environment services and can help improve the protection, conservation and management of heritage assets.

BUILDINGS AND STRUCTURES

Our nine local teams can help existing and potential owners, developers and local authorities with the assessment of risk and the identification of appropriate programmes of repair. They can advise on the benefits of additional survey and assessment, help with feasibility studies and with brokering solutions. In particularly difficult cases they can draw on the additional expertise of our national advisers specialising in structural engineering, quantity surveying, development economics, enforcement and planning law. We can help with access to funding as we work closely with grant providers including the Heritage Lottery Fund and Natural England. Our own principal grant stream for buildings and structures is the Historic Buildings, Monuments and Designed Landscapes (HBMDL) grant but Section 17 Management Agreements can also be used to tackle risk to scheduled monuments. More information on funding can be found at www.english-heritage.org.uk/professional/funding.

We know from our own Register how useful it is in managing risk, prioritising action and engaging partners. We are therefore working with local authorities and voluntary groups to enable them to compile local heritage at risk registers and develop strategies for tackling buildings in poor condition. These strategies should include the use of enforcement powers. Our Heritage at Risk Legal Adviser can support local authorities considering enforcement action and we have published guidance at www.english-heritage.org.uk/publications/stoppingtherot. In certain circumstances we can also provide grant aid to underwrite the cost of serving Urgent Works and Repairs Notices.

Building preservation trusts (BPTs) offer a tried and tested way of saving buildings at risk. We have close links with the Architectural Heritage Fund and fund their regional support officers to work across the county. They help BPTs and other not-for-profit organisations access funding, carry out feasibility studies and develop solutions for buildings at risk. For more information on support officers and BPTs visit www.ahfund.org.uk and www.ukapt.org.uk. Guidance and case studies can be found at www.english-heritage.org.uk/publications/pillars-of-the-community.

English Heritage also funds an Industrial Heritage Support Officer to work with groups running industrial heritage sites. For more information please visit www.industrialheritagesupport.wordpress.com.

PLACES OF WORSHIP

Regular maintenance helps to keep all buildings in good condition but those suffering major problems need repairs to minimise the risks to both the structure and the contents. Keeping drains and gutters clear so that water is taken away from the building efficiently is the most important thing congregations can do as this stops small problems developing into unnecessary crises. The overflowing gutter soon soaks the wall beneath, rots the roof timbers behind it and makes the whole building vulnerable.

In some areas congregations group together to engage reputable contractors at competitive rates to clear gutters and rainwater goods. Such co-operation enables them to get good quality work carried out at reasonable prices by firms that understand historic buildings. The Maintenance Co-operatives project run by the Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings will further help to connect, inform and empower those people who look after places of worship.

The Heritage Lottery Fund runs the new Grants for Places of Worship scheme. The main focus of the scheme is fabric repairs but it also provides funds for modest changes to enhance community use of the building. English Heritage's architects and surveyors, based in our local Heritage at Risk teams, provide technical advice to the Heritage Lottery Fund on fabric repairs to ensure appropriate conservation standards are met.

The Government's Listed Places of Worship scheme, enabling the reclaiming of VAT on eligible repairs, maintenance and authorised alterations, is available to all listed places of worship, whether they have obtained grants or are funding work themselves. Local and national charities also offer grants.

English Heritage supports congregations wanting to keep their places of worship in use and recognises the need for appropriate new facilities such as kitchens and toilets that are sensitive to the building's special character. New Work in Historic Places of Worship (published 2012) helps congregations understand how changes can be achieved.

A network of support officers, employed locally but part-funded by English Heritage, offers direct advice and encouragement to congregations. Projects to effect repairs and develop necessary new facilities for both the community and visitors are breathing a new lease of life into these treasured parts of our heritage.

ARCHAEOLOGY

The excellent progress which is being made with reducing the number of scheduled monuments on the Register continues to demonstrate the value which owners and land managers are placing upon the positive management of archaeological sites. The large majority (84%) of the 19,832 scheduled monuments in England (in 2013) are on land classified as agricultural. Effective information sharing with Natural England and Defra is therefore of great importance for prioritising management action and for targeting agri-environment grant schemes to best effect. This will be especially important with the New Environmental Land Management Scheme (NELMS) which commences in 2015. Natural England now shares our corporate target of removing 25% of the scheduled monuments on the 2010 Register by 2015. We also continue to work closely with the Heritage Lottery Fund to identify the nationally important monuments deserving of grant-aid for enhanced conservation, presentation and access projects.

Loss and damage as a consequence of arable cultivation remains the greatest source of risk to scheduled monuments on the Register. Reporting in late 2013, however, the Conservation of Scheduled Monuments in Cultivation (COSMIC) project has provided updated risk assessments for 1587 sites on the Register, and features bespoke prescriptions for reducing the risks from cultivation damage. In some cases, the COSMIC mitigation recommendations have already been acted upon by our local teams, resulting in a significant number of removals from the 2013 Register.

Analysis of entries on the Register shows that unmanaged woodland, tree, scrub and bracken growth is one of the most widespread causes of long-term damage to both urban and rural archaeological sites - even if the effects are not as visible or as immediately destructive as other processes. In most cases simple, low cost but regular maintenance is the key, the delivery of which will always be reliant upon the help and goodwill of landowners.

PARKS AND GARDENS

Although a statutory list, the Register of Historic Parks and Gardens of Special Historic Interest in England in itself brings no additional statutory powers, it instead works through the development control system to provide a valuable tool for the protection of the sites it includes. The Government's National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) stresses the desirability of sustaining and enhancing the significance of all heritage assets and finding viable uses consistent with their conservation. The NPPF states that great weight must be given to the conservation of sites included on the Register of Historic Parks and Gardens of Special Historic Interest and that substantial harm or loss of such features can only be justified in exceptional cases.

A great many historic parks and gardens are either privately owned or in trust. In addition, local authorities are responsible for nearly all the public parks and cemeteries in our towns and cities. Registered parks and gardens are typically large, complex heritage assets, many in multiple ownership, and it can take years to identify and implement solutions to reduce the risks to parks and gardens.

To help reduce the risks, English Heritage encourages and works with owners to develop conservation management strategies. Landscape architects working in our Heritage at Risk teams can help tailor conservation management plans and funding packages for individual landscape features or whole sites. We work with partners, such as Natural England and the Heritage Lottery Fund, to help source funding to secure sustainable futures for parks and gardens at risk.

Further information and conservation guidance for parks, gardens and designed landscapes is available at: www.english-heritage.org.uk/professional/advice/advice-by-topic/parks-and-gardens.

BATTLEFIELDS

As with registered parks and gardens, the Register of Historic Battlefields brings no additional statutory controls to registered battlefields, but the National Planning Policy Framework makes it clear that registered battlefields are of equal significance to scheduled monuments, buildings listed grade I and II* registered parks and gardens and protected wreck sites. Therefore, the positive conservation and management of registered battlefields is a core element of current heritage legislation.

English Heritage continues to work with owners to develop management plans for registered battlefields and, in appropriate cases, contribute towards the cost of management plans. We work to develop positive landscape strategies with owners and partners such as Defra through Environmental Stewardship schemes. In some circumstances, we may encourage the conversion from arable to pasture of especially sensitive locations to protect battlefield archaeology from the effects of ploughing and as part of a wider drive to prevent unauthorised or damaging metal-detecting.

English Heritage also continues to encourage greater access to battlefields and improve their amenity value and visitors' understanding of the impact these historic events had on our development as a nation.

Local authorities can also invite comments from the Battlefields Trust on planning applications affecting the setting of registered battlefield sites.

WRECK SITES

At the strategic level, the major sources of risk to protected wreck sites have been identified. In terms of high-priority sites, practical requirements have also been implemented through conservation management plans and appropriate intervention.

Risks to protected historic wreck sites can often be reduced through education, provision of marker buoys, or planning policies that take full account of their national importance. However, some sites require significant resources to stabilise their condition or to carry out detailed archaeological assessments of their conservation requirements. Although English Heritage has statutory power to allocate funds to promote the preservation and maintenance of protected wreck sites, its financial resources can solve only a small proportion of the problems.

In spite of the inherent difficulties with caring for this type of site, careful management must be maintained if we are to avoid the loss of wreck sites. It is therefore close co-operation between the owners of protected wreck sites (where known), authorised divers and all organisations charged with care for the marine and coastal environment, that will make the real difference to their long-term survival.

Practical advice on the management of historic wreck sites, whether at the coast-edge or under water, is available from English Heritage (maritime@english-heritage.org.uk) and from www.helm.org.uk

CONSERVATION AREAS

The risks to conservation areas are difficult to address as these designated areas can constitute large areas of land; they include streets, spaces, archaeology and trees as well as buildings and structures and therefore involve many different owners and methods of management. Looking after conservation areas is a responsibility shared by those of us who own homes and businesses within them as well as those of us whose job it is to manage them or make decisions about their future.

The Conservation Areas Survey, completed by local authorities, provides us with an understanding of what is particularly affecting the character and appearance of conservation areas: what is working well or what is putting them at risk. Strong planning policies, guidance and a clear management strategy for individual conservation areas, backed up by effective enforcement, are all critical in managing change in these areas. This is, however, extremely difficult at a time when local authorities across the country are reducing their staff numbers. Armed with the information provided by conservation area surveys, we, local authorities and other partners will have the evidence to direct resources much more accurately towards those conservation areas at greatest risk.

There are opportunities for members of the local community to get involved with protecting and enhancing their conservation area, either individually or through groups. Some local groups have helped to prepare character appraisals and management plans for conservation areas whilst others have carried out their own assessments to identify management issues. Further information on how you can get involved is available at: www.english-heritage.org.uk/caring/get-involved/improve-your-neighbourhood.

Key statistics

BUILDINGS AND STRUCTURES

- Nationally, 4.0% of grade I and II* listed buildings (excluding places of worship) are on the Register. In London the percentage is 4.2% (69 listed secular buildings).
- 2.6% (430) of London's grade II listed secular buildings are on the Register.
- 30 building or structure entries have been removed from the 2013 London Register because their futures have been secured, and 23 have been added.
- 96% of buildings or structures on the London baseline 1991 Register have been removed because their futures have been secured.

PLACES OF WORSHIP

- Nationally, 6.0% of listed places of worship are on the Register. In London, 9.2% (73) are on the Register.
- 4 places of worship have been removed from the London Register following repair work, and 25 have been added.

ARCHAEOLOGY

- 3,012 (15.2%) of England's 19,833 scheduled monuments are on the Register. 31 (19.9%) of London's 156 scheduled monuments are on the Register.
- 2 archaeology entries have been removed from the 2013 London Register for positive reasons, and 1 has been added.
- 29.7% of archaeology entries (11) on the London baseline 2009 Register have been removed for positive reasons, compared with the national figure of 29.2%.

- Nationally, damage from arable cultivation is the greatest cause of risk affecting 43% of archaeological entries on the Register. In London the proportion is 10%. The greatest risk, to 26% of entries on the London Register is from unrestricted plant, scrub and tree growth. The national figure for plant, scrub and tree growth is also 26%.

PARKS AND GARDENS

- 93 (5.7%) of England's 1,628 registered parks and gardens are on the Register. Of the 150 registered parks and gardens in London, 11 (7.3%) are on the Register, the same as last year.

BATTLEFIELDS

- Of the 46 registered battlefields in England, 6 (13.0%) are on the Register. The only registered battlefield in London is not on the Register.

WRECK SITES

- Of the 49 protected wreck sites around England's coast, 4 (8.2%) are on the Register. London has no protected wreck sites.

CONSERVATION AREAS

- 8,206 of England's 9,848 conservation areas have been surveyed by local authorities and 497 (6.1%) are on the Register. Of the 1,014 conservation areas in London, 953 have been surveyed and 60 (6.3%) are on the Register.
- 5 conservation areas have been removed from the 2013 London Register for positive reasons, and 5 have been added.

ENGLISH HERITAGE FUNDING

- £813,000 in grant was spent on 17 entries on the London Register during 2013/14.

Risk assessments of heritage assets are based on the nature of the site. Building and structure assessments include listed buildings (excluding listed places of worship) and structural scheduled monuments; archaeology assessments cover earthworks and buried archaeology.

Key to the entries

This Register includes the following risk assessment types

- Building or structure
(grade I, II* and II listed buildings and structural scheduled monuments)
- Place of worship
(grade I, II* and II listed buildings)
- Archaeology
(scheduled monuments – earthworks and buried archaeology)
- Park and garden
(Registered parks and gardens)
- Conservation area
(Conservation areas)

ORDER

Entries are grouped and ordered alphabetically by London borough. Within each borough, entries are grouped by risk assessment type in the following order:

- Buildings or structures
- Places of worship
- Archaeology
- Conservation areas

Within each risk assessment type, entries are ordered alphabetically by street and site name. Conservation areas are ordered by site name only. Parks and gardens are integrated by locality.

DESIGNATION

The principal designation is noted for each entry and includes:

- Listed Building (LB) grade I, II* or II
- Listed Place of Worship grade I, II* or II
- Scheduled Monument (SM)
- Registered Park and Garden (RPG) grade I, II* or II
- Conservation Area (CA)

Other designations that apply to the designated site, including location within a World Heritage Site (WHS), are also noted.

If an entry is dual designated (both listed and scheduled), 'and' rather than a comma is used (eg 'Scheduled Monument and Listed Building grade I'). If a scheduled monument entry is dual designated with a number of listed buildings, each is separated by a semicolon.

The National Heritage List Entry Number is included for all entries (except conservation areas). If a site is dual designated, all relevant List Entry Numbers are noted.

CONDITION

For buildings (including places of worship), condition is graded as: 'very bad', 'poor', 'fair' and 'good'.

For sites that cover areas (scheduled monuments (archaeology assessments) and parks and gardens) one overall condition category is recorded. The category may relate only to the part of the site or monument that is at risk and not the whole site:

- extensive significant problems
- generally unsatisfactory with major localised problems
- generally satisfactory but with significant localised problems
- generally satisfactory but with minor localised problems
- optimal
- unknown (noted for a number of scheduled monuments that are below-ground and where their condition cannot be established).

For conservation areas, condition is categorised as: 'very bad', 'poor', 'fair' and 'optimal'.

If a site has suffered from heritage crime it is noted in the summary. Heritage crime is defined as any offence which harms the heritage asset or its setting and includes arson, graffiti, lead theft and vandalism.

OCCUPANCY/USE

For buildings (excluding places of worship) that can be occupied or have a use, the main vulnerability is vacancy or under-use. Occupancy (or use) is noted as follows:

- vacant
- part occupied
- occupied
- unknown
- not applicable

VULNERABILITY

Principal vulnerability is noted for archaeology assessments and may relate only to the part of the site that is at risk, and include:

- animal burrowing
- arable ploughing
- coastal erosion
- collapse
- deterioration – in need of management
- scrub/tree growth
- visitor erosion

For parks and gardens and conservation areas, vulnerability is noted as high, medium or low.

PRIORITY CATEGORY

Priority for action is assessed on a scale of A to F, where 'A' is the highest priority for a site which is deteriorating rapidly with no solution to secure its future, and 'F' is the lowest priority.

For buildings and structures and places of worship the following priority categories are used as an indication of trend and as a means of prioritising action:

- A Immediate risk of further rapid deterioration or loss of fabric; no solution agreed
- B Immediate risk of further rapid deterioration or loss of fabric; solution agreed but not yet implemented
- C Slow decay; no solution agreed
- D Slow decay; solution agreed but not yet implemented
- E Under repair or in fair to good repair, but no user identified; or under threat of vacancy with no obvious new user (applicable only to buildings capable of beneficial use)
- F Repair scheme in progress and (where applicable) end use or user identified; functionally redundant buildings with new use agreed but not yet implemented.

2013 priority categories are given in brackets, otherwise 'New entry' is noted.

'New entry – re-assessed' indicates an existing site on the Register that has been re-assessed using a different risk assessment methodology and is included on this year's Register under the new assessment type.

TREND

Trend for archaeology entries and parks and gardens may relate only to the part of the site that is at risk and is categorised as:

- declining
- stable
- improving
- unknown

For conservation areas trend is categorised as:

- deteriorating
- deteriorating significantly
- no significant change
- improving
- improving significantly
- unknown

OWNERSHIP

A principal ownership category is given for each entry, and if sites are in divided ownership, a 'multiple' ownership category is noted.

CONTACT

This is the member of the English Heritage local team who acts as a first point of contact for the case, and to whom enquiries should be addressed.

For conservation areas and grade II listed buildings, the contact is the conservation/planning officer at the relevant local planning authority (indicated by 'LPA').

We are not in any sense agents for the owners of the sites included, but we will endeavour to put people in touch with them where appropriate.

Boundary marker of the Liberty of Havering-atte-Bower, originally set up in 1642. There are two stones; one 12 inches high inscribed 'Marks Stone' and one 30 inches high inscribed 'Marks Stone Sept 1642'. One stone is broken and in safekeeping, the other remains in its original position. The stones are to be repaired by quarry operators as part of a planning condition for the adjacent quarry once restoration of the area is complete. A Heritage Lottery Fund start-up grant has been awarded to investigate the potential of the site with community involvement.

The Railway Hotel dates from 1931 and was designed by AE Sewell for the brewers, Truman Hanbury Buxton. It is a large, prominent, three storey, half-timbered roadhouse and one of the best examples of its type in the country. It has been closed as a public house for over six years. The listing includes the former off-sales building to the west and the gibbet sign on the frontage. A scheme of restoration and extension for hotel use has been approved although not implemented.

DESIGNATION:	Listed Place of Worship grade I, CA
CONDITION:	Poor
PRIORITY CATEGORY:	C (New entry)
OWNER TYPE:	Religious organisation
LIST ENTRY NUMBER:	1294714

Designed by Sir Edwin Lutyens, St Jude's was consecrated in 1911 with the west end finally completed in 1935. Frescoes throughout by Walter Starmer 1919-30. Built in grey and red brick with stone dressings and clay tiled roofs. It has a tall open tower and spire. The church has damp issues, including the crypt which is prone to flooding. There is cracking evident internally and some areas of the frescoes are suffering from salt damage. Localised repairs are required to the brickwork and the roofs. The heating system requires overhauling.

DESIGNATION:	Listed Place of Worship grade II*, CA
CONDITION:	Poor
PRIORITY CATEGORY:	C (New entry)
OWNER TYPE:	Religious organisation
LIST ENTRY NUMBER:	1359434

St Paulinus dates from the C11 when the church was in the form of a simple two-cell building on the footprint of the current north nave. By 1220, a parallel nave was added on the south side, later arcaded. By the 1430s a western tower had been added, largely in the form we see today. An eastern chapel houses fine C17 monuments, and the marble reredos in the chancel dates from the C19 restoration. Repairs are needed to flint walling, the tower stonework and the drainage system, which is the cause of much dampness in the lower walls. The church is seeking funding for the repairs.

The church was built in the Early English style in 1885 by Joseph Peacock with additional internal features by Charles Nicholson c1913. Built of yellow stock brick under clay tiled roofs; stone dressings inside and out with red brick banding inside. The church has an unusual two-storey Narthex with bellcote. There is settlement of the foundations at the north-east corner causing structural cracking to the vestry and associated walls of the church itself. The east end roofing and north side guttering are in need of repair.

This church was constructed in the style of a three-aisled basilica (without a dome) by Ewan Christian in 1884-85. It has been in use by the Greek Orthodox Church since 1957, and became their St Andrew's Cathedral in 1970. All internal walls and ceilings have been decorated in the traditional Byzantine style, but large areas of plaster are detaching due to dampness. Externally the tabled guttering to the aisles and apse needs renewal.

The church, designed by RC Carpenter and completed in 1852, was described in the Ecclesiologist as the 'most artistically correct new church in London'. Even so, it was altered in 1866-67, and in 1883-84 the north aisle and crypt were added. Built of ragstone with Welsh slate roofs on Baltic fir collar-braced trusses. The interior is richly decorated with marbles and frescoes. The condition of the frescoes is deteriorating as a result of damp caused by leaks in the roof and defective rainwater goods. Externally there is localised decay to the stonework.

Dates from the C13 and enlarged in the C19, but retains C13 and C15 fabric and some very fine wall memorials. The church exhibits cracking externally and internally. Monitoring is showing movement to be progressive and not just seasonal. A contributing cause is considered to be the very deep and narrow C19 gully which runs around the building. The church has been awarded a first round pass from the Heritage Lottery Fund to undertake further investigations and develop a repair strategy.

Church of 1864-6 by Edward Buckton Lamb. The choir vestry, added in 1928, is now subdivided for community use. Eclectic Gothic style with Kentish ragstone walls, Bath stone dressings and tiled roofs. The tower is missing its corner pinnacles and turret. The interior incorporates a hammerbeam roof and fine fittings. The church has a history of subsidence and more recent cracking to the former choir vestry is likely to require underpinning. Urgent repairs to the tower stonework and restoration of the pinnacles are due to start in summer 2014, grant-aided by the Heritage Lottery Fund.

Designed by Sir Christopher Wren this church was built between 1686 and 1695. The form is a simple rectangle orientated north-south with a vestry to the east and a tower to the west end. The south elevation is faced in Portland stone while the others are rendered with stone dressings. The four-stage tower is topped with a cupola and obelisk. The church has fine contemporary fittings. There are cracks evident externally between the tower and the body of the church, which are being monitored. The floor of the nave is also undulating as a result of differential settlement.

The old parish church of Stoke Newington dates from 1563. The church was restored in 1827-29 by Charles Barry who raised new roofs on a clerestory and added the spire and an outer north aisle, which was not rebuilt after World War II damage. Consequently the soft red bricks, now exposed to the weather on the north side, are deteriorating badly. Much of the external fabric needs repairs, including the tower, cracked renders and open joints to copings. The churchyard is heavily overgrown, with the monuments suffering accordingly.

The Art-Workers-Guild background of the three architects involved in this late C19 church is very apparent. JF Sedding died when the austere Gothic nave was half completed from the east; he was succeeded by his pupil Henry Wilson (west nave and lady chapel) and J Harold Gibbons, who in 1916 completed the Arts and Crafts facade. The church is in ragstone, with Bath stone dressings under a plain tiled roof. It has high quality interior fittings. The roof tiling is original and now failing.

This is a Medieval church which incorporates a C14 tower with C18 battlements. The north aisle was rebuilt in 1855. The chancel and east end extensions, raised clerestories and other internal alterations were by William Butterfield in 1875-7. Although altered, the C14 and C15 fabric survives internally. The roof of the parvis is in poor condition, as well as the valley gutters and wall plates of the roof in places. Internally there is localised decay to the stonework, particularly at the west end. There are important monumental tombs in the churchyard, also in poor condition.

Manor House dating from C14 with C16, C17 and C18 fabric, surrounded by a moat. Believed to be the earliest surviving timber-framed building in Middlesex, and the oldest complete water-filled moat in Greater London. The Council has secured Stage 1 funding from the Heritage Lottery Fund to develop plans to restore the building, part of a wider masterplan to provide Harrow's heritage centre and community museum. A detailed Conservation Plan is out for consultation (summer 2014) and over £1 million of council funds have been secured for the project.

The roofless ruined church of St John the Evangelist was built in 1632, attributed to Nicholas Stone. The wall heads have exposed brickwork allowing rainwater ingress. This is resulting in the erosion of mortar and bricks and supporting deleterious plant growth. There is decayed mortar, brick, stone and timber elsewhere around the building along with some vertical cracking in the walling. The church is still used for worship.

Medieval timber-framed, aisled barn of 12 bays, one of the finest buildings of its type. Urgent works were undertaken by English Heritage in January 2010 to repair the roof covering and areas of weatherboarding. The barn was acquired by English Heritage in 2011 and is now open to the public from April-October. A phased programme of repairs has started and it is anticipated that works will be completed in 2014.

Built in 1875 consisting of three storeys with four storey staircase towers at each end and in the centre of the south west front. Many windows retain heavy cast iron shutters with firing loops and massive bolts to the interior. The building has been unused for some years and the interior of the top storey in particular displays evidence of deterioration. This is as a result of rainwater penetration from the rooftop parapet and blockages in the flat roof drainage rainwater pipes. There are currently no plans for repairs.

Built mid C18 as a compact block in stock brick and modelled on other Palladian villas. Extended in late C18 with the addition of side wings. The interior has been modernised but retains C18 decorations of interest, which may partly be attributable to James Wyatt who lived at Hanworth. The building has been unused for some time, there is extensive rot damage in the principal storey and rainwater penetration. Some urgent repair works were carried out in 2013 to stabilise the building, but further work is required. There are no plans for the future use of the building.

Arcade, 1839-40, situated in the centre of the southern half of Brompton Cemetery, designed by Benjamin Baud. It is a united composition comprising four quadrants which form the circle and the avenue. The structure is suffering gradual decay owing to the later addition of a cast concrete flat roof. A Heritage Lottery Fund grant was awarded in January 2014 for works to the wider cemetery.

London's first metropolitan cemetery, begun 1833, designed by John William Griffith. The cemetery contains a large number of listed monuments and structures at risk, including the Anglican Chapel and North Colonnade. A Conservation Management Plan is in place and a project manager has been appointed to further develop management and conservation strategies, including a possible application to the Heritage Lottery Fund. Legislative changes in May 2014 will enable the formation of a Trust to oversee the management of parts of the cemetery.

Catacombs circa 1837; cemetery laid out circa 1837 by Sir William Tite. A temporary roof has been erected over the entrance to allow the structure to dry out before agreeing repairs. Funding options are being explored. An application to retain the temporary roof was approved in 2011 for five years. Moisture surveys are ongoing; levels appear to be stabilising/reducing. Discussions are ongoing regarding a cemetery management plan and long-term future.

This church was completed in 1893 to the designs of Ernest Newton, with an extension in 1905. A small mission church of 1884 survives at the east end. Built of red Wrotham brick, Bath stone is used for windows and dressings and Portland stone for copings, all under slated roofs. A programme of repairs to windows and masonry at the west end was completed in early 2014, grant-aided by the Heritage Lottery Fund and English Heritage. There are still concerns about the structure of the east window, rainwater goods and drainage to the north side.

This Georgian church, completed to an unusual design in 1774 by George Gibson Jnr, replaced a Medieval church and incorporated the original tower. The chancel was added in 1882 by William Blomfield and then re-modelled in 1995-96. The whole church is raised over a crypt and the south side entrance protected by a neoclassical portico. Despite repairs to the aisle parapet gutters, there has been continued leakage on the north and south sides, which has put the fine Georgian woodwork at risk and caused localised outbreaks of dry rot.

Detached villa dating from 1843-8 in an Italianate style. Occupied as a number of bedsits. Planning Permission and Listed Building Consent were refused in November 2011 for a scheme seeking to retain the use of the building as seven self-contained flats and associated unauthorised works. This is being investigated as an enforcement matter.

Built in 1856, designed by F & H Francis. Apse added in 1900. Externally coursed ragstone with limestone dressings and slate roofs. The spire was taken down after World War II. The church became near derelict and underwent major repair in 1995. Progressive structural instability is exhibited by extensive cracking and splitting of stone in the nave arcading. Some holding works have been implemented to pin back split stones and steel plates fixed to the underside of arches where the stones have slipped.
