

SITE 240.

Ancient Monuments Lab. Report No. 4519

The Human Bones from Braceby and Sapperton - 240.

The cremated human bones from three small samples was examined in the laboratory. The minimum number of individuals was estimated as one, as two of the samples could not be definitely identified as human.

There was one adult in the population sample but no other observations could be made.

Alison Cameron
University of Bradford
8th March 1985

The Catalogue of Cremated Human Bone from Braceby and Sapperton

Cremation 1

Bone preservation: poor, very little of the skeleton was represented

Sex: -

Age: adult, based on the size of the bones

Stature: -

Pathology: -

Weight: -

Cremation 2

This was a very small sample of bone which could not be positively identified as human. No further observations could be made.

Cremation 3

This was a very small collection of human bone. No further observations could be made.